He attended the first October conference of the church. It was held in Orange township, Ohio, in 1831, where he first saw the prophet Joseph Smith, and at once concelved for aim a strong personal attendment. Time strengthened the as-utome that he was sent of God. It was the great business of his life, for over lifty years, to bear testimony of the fact, and of the divinity of the latter-day work. In 1832, when on a mission to the state of New York, he preached the gospel to his relatives and baptized his father, mother and several others into the church. By the coun 2 into the church. By the coun 21 of the Prophet Joseph, he moved to Kirtland, Ohio, in 1883. He was present when the foundation of the Kirtland Temple was laid, and assisted by his labors in his construction. He was present when the council of Twelve A postles and the other various oursups of the church council of Twelve Apostles and the other various quoroums of the church were organized. He attended the dedication of the Lord's house on the 27th of March, 1836, and also the meetings and councils that immediately followed. He saw and heard the power of God manifested as mentioned in the history of Joseph Smith. He was chosen a member of the quorum of seventies, and as an elder of the seventies performed several important missions. He took an active part in the exodus of the an active part in the exodus of the saints from Kirtland in the spring of 1828. With others he sacrificed an active part in the exodus of the saints from Kirtland in the spring of 1828. With others he sacrificed what could be spared from his own necessities to take along the poor who could not help themselves. Being appointed to stop at Springheld, Hls., and take care of the sick whom it was necessary to leave, he soon built up a branch of the church there of some forty members. In January, 1828, it was manifested to him that he should remove to Carthage, His. There he built up a branch of fifty members, called the Crooked Creek Branch. A stake of the church was afterwards organized there, over which he presided for some time. He was eight miles from Carthage on the memorable 27th of June when Joseph and Hyrum Smith were slain in the Carthage jail. He shared with the sannts their sacrifices and losses in Illinois. When driven from his possession in Hancock County, he removed into Knox County, and left that place for Salt Lake Valley in May 1848. He arrived in the valley the 19th of the following October. He was elected a member of the Provisional State of Deseret for 1849 and 1850. In the autumn of 1850 he was selected, with many others, to assist Apostle George A. Smith in forming a settlement in Little Salt Lake Valley. He at once lent all his energies to the work assigned to him. Since then his interests have been identified with southern Utah. He and his large, industrious family have been an important factor in its development. In the early days of the organization of trious family have been an important factor in its development. In the early days of the organization of from County and the municipal government of the City of Parowan, he was at once recognized as a leading man in developing the country, by its election to the city council and the county court. He was also appointed a member of the high council in the stake. At the organization of the Territorial Legislature at Fillmore, in December, 1855, he was elected chaplain of the House. He soon after performed a three years' missing the country court.
